Things to Know When Ordering

FOOD & BEVERAGE QUANTITIES TO ORDER

This is an area that makes even the most experienced meeting or event planner a bit nervous. Once the food and beverage "guarantee" of the number of people to be served is given to the caterer handling your function, you will be obligated to pay for that number of servings even if your attendance is lower than expected. You can always increase your guarantee, but you cannot reduce it after the deadline, usually 4 working days in advance of your event (weekend days don't count). You will also have a contractual obligation that will state a minimum you will pay regardless of when you give a guarantee, so be sure you understand. Ask us for our recommendation & we will help you determine what you need.
